PROCESS FOR THE SELECTION OF LEAD DIRECTOR

From time to time, there is a need for directors appointed under Section 9 of the Bank of Canada Act to consider the selection of a new Lead Director. This note documents the process for the election of a Lead Director.

The process begins when the Lead Director's term as Lead Director has ended or when that person has ceased to be a director thereby leaving the Lead Director position vacant.

The procedures set forth below may be abridged or modified in any particular case with the concurrence of all directors indicated to the Lead Director or the designated director, as the case maybe.

Steps:

1. All directors are invited to express their interest in becoming Lead Director. The invitation could be issued by any means appropriate to the circumstances and timing required (e.g. e-mail, telephone meeting, etc.). The invitation will be accompanied by the Terms of Reference for the Lead Director position.
2. The expressions of interest are sent to the General Counsel/Corporate Secretary.
3. Directors are informed of the names of the interested candidates. Ballots are prepared with the names of the directors who have expressed interest and then distributed in any manner appropriate to the circumstances as noted above.
4. An election meeting is convened. Directors designate a director who is not a candidate for the Lead Directorship to manage the election process.
5. At the election meeting, directors who have expressed an interest in becoming Lead Director will have an opportunity to reflect on the contribution they could bring to the role.
6. Directors vote for their preferred candidate. The General Counsel & Corporate Secretary and the designated director count the votes.
7. The candidate obtaining more than 50% of the votes immediately becomes Lead Director. Depending on the number of directors who express interest, run-off voting may be required until a candidate receives a majority of the votes.
8. One month after the completion of the election, the ballots are destroyed by the General Counsel/Corporate Secretary.

Should the Lead Director position become vacant, the Chair of the Corporate Governance Committee would be designated as the interim Lead Director. The process to elect a new Lead Director will be initiated as soon as possible.

The Lead Director is elected for a two-year renewable term unless otherwise determined. The election would customarily take place at the time of the September Board meeting and shall be effective immediately subsequent to the conclusion of such meeting.
